- At The Buzzer (4 points)

Contestants may register any time before midnight on Saturday, March 24, 2012. All entries must be submitted before midnight on Saturday, March 31, 2012. A final winner will be announced before midnight on Wednesday, April 4, 2012. There will be two sets of questions each week, one pertaining to AutoCAD and the other for Inventor topics. At the end of the “tournament” the total of all points for correctly answered questions will determine the winner. Each week, records will be kept of the time of the submission for each contestant and totaled for the entire contest. In the case of a tie, the contestant with the lowest total time for submissions will determine the winner.

A bonus of 5 points will be awarded to any contestant who successfully recommends another person to compete in the contest. A contestant may recruit up to five new competitors. The new contestant will receive 3 points as a “signing bonus”. In order to be eligible for the recruiting and signing bonuses, the following conditions must be met:

- The new contestant must meet the eligibility requirements listed below.
- The new contestant must use AutoCAD, Inventor or other CAD software as part of their employment or schooling. If presently unemployed, the new contestant must have used CAD software in the past five years as part of their work or schooling.

- The new contestant must participate by making a minimum of one submission of answers.

Entry Submission

All registered contestants will be notified by email when the questions for each week become available for download. All entries must be submitted by email on the form supplied by LTS to the email address provided by LTS. Only one entry is permitted per contestant each week. The first entry submitted by a contestant will be scored as their official entry. An entry may be made by each contestant each week for the AutoCAD-based questions or the Inventor-based questions, but not both for any given week. For example, a contestant may submit answers for the AutoCAD-based questions one week and the Inventor-based questions the next. If a contestant should submit answers for both the AutoCAD-based questions and the Inventor-based questions for a given week, their first submission will be the only one counted.
